

Our impact is growing

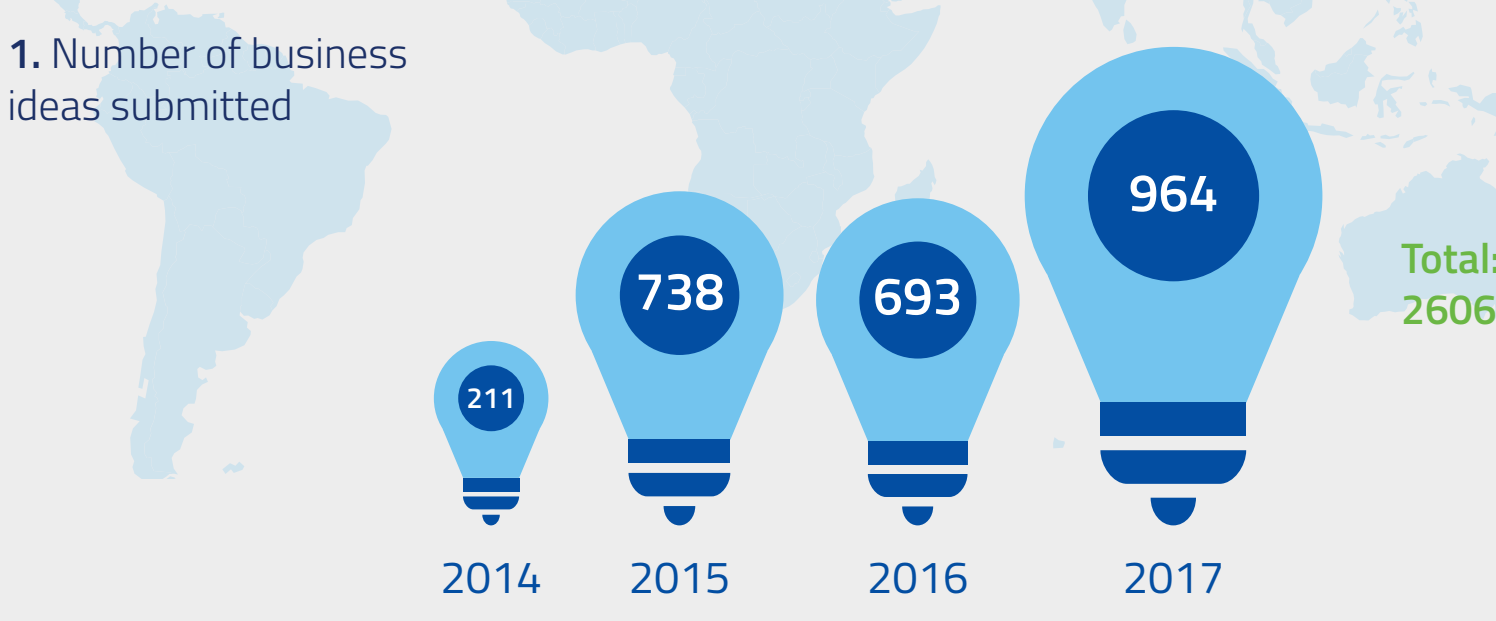

Ever since our early days back in 2014 we've seen our competition grow. From a European to a global gig: we always were and still are the largest green business ideas competition in the world. Every year more countries join, more ideas are entered and more start-ups successfully find their way to global impact on climate change. Numbers to be proud of.

ClimateLaunchpad over the years

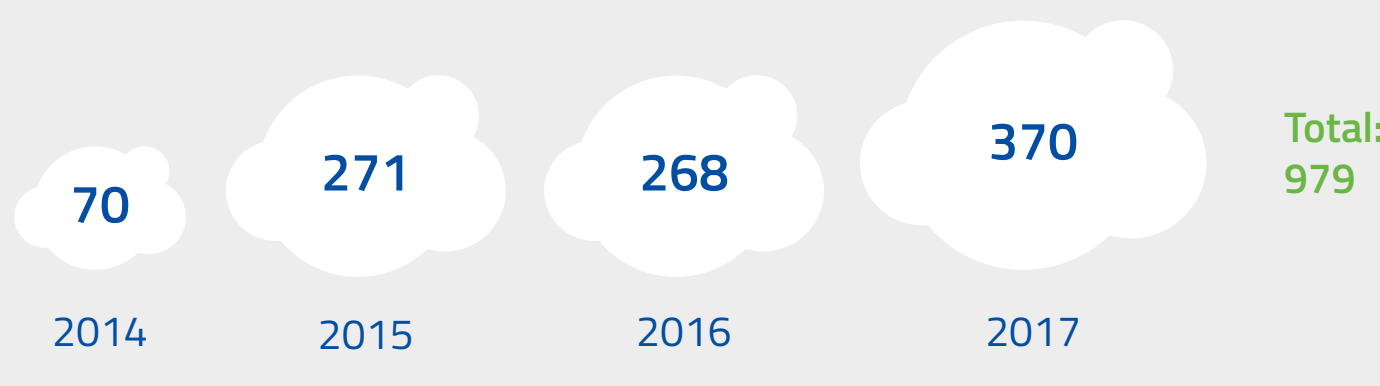

2017:

35 = 10000
countries ideas

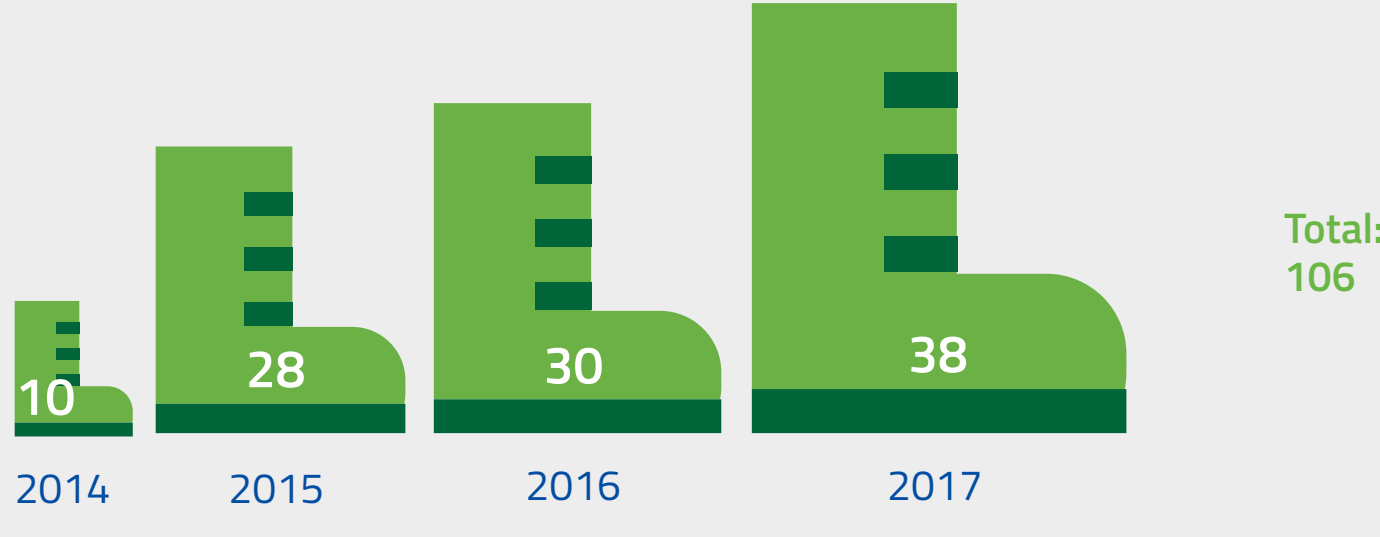

1. Number of business ideas submitted

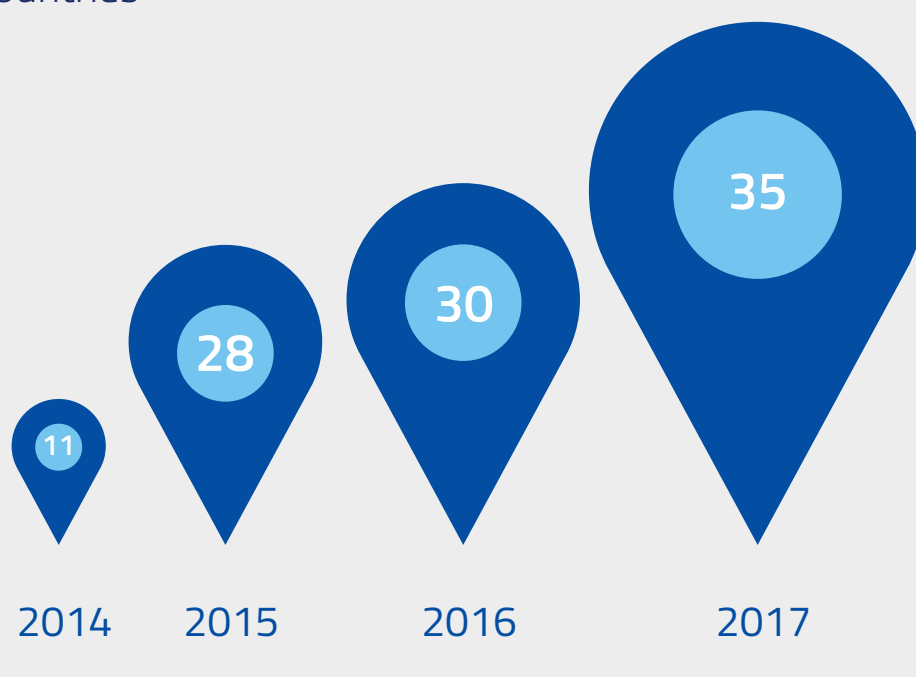

2. Teams invited to join our competition

3. The amount of Boot Camps organized

4. Participating countries

The economic impact

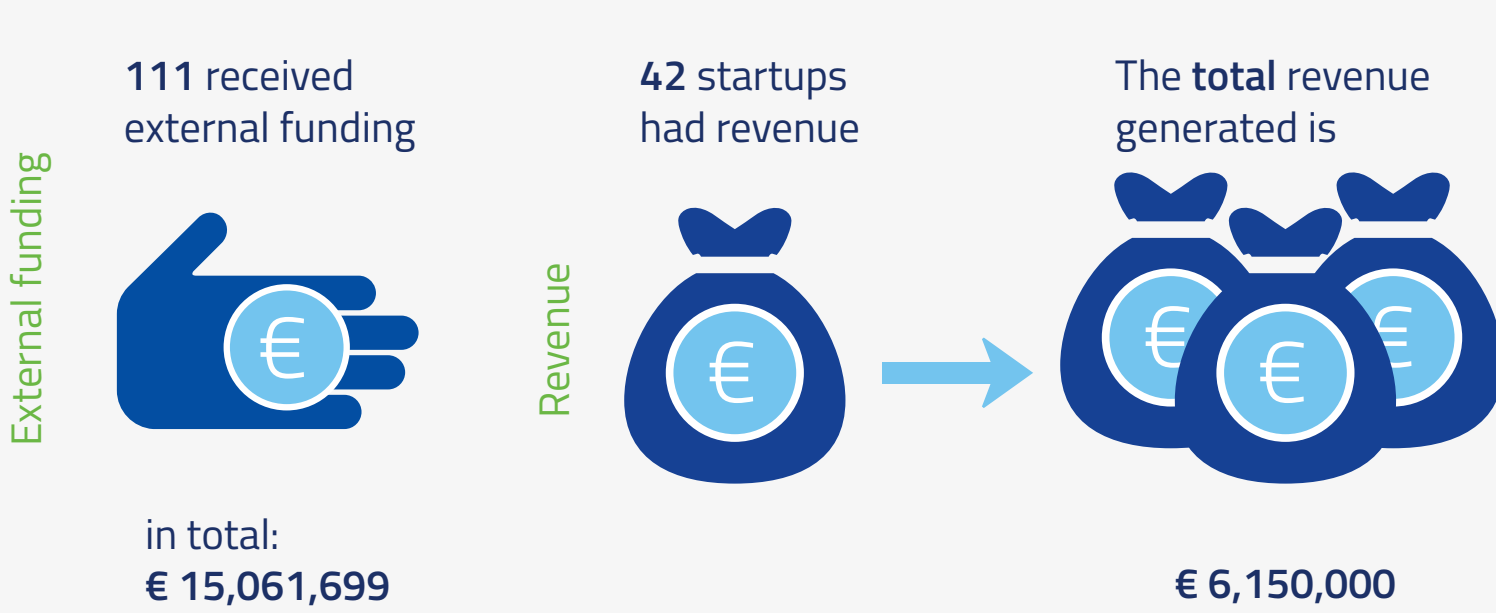

It's the climate, stupid

Fixing climate change is by all means an economic affair.

728 start-ups

that have been enrolled over the years:

Where's the impact?

The green economy is a large and growing arena. We had a look at where the 111 start-ups with external funding are doing business.

